THE GP AND THE PRIMARY HEALTH CARE TEAM

NEIL MACKICHAN

A modification and enlargement of a book first published under the title of Assisting the General Practitioner. The many changes in the NHS since then have necessitated a completely new approach, and the book is now directed at the entire Primary Health Care Team. Much new material is presented, concerned with the work of Nurses, Health Visitors, Midwives and Social Workers. The book is based on the experience of the author—who is himself a GP—in drawing up the original correspondence course on which the current local authority College of Further Education courses are based, and on the requirements of the Diploma of the Association of Medical Secretaries.

PRACTICAL CONTRACEPTION

S. RAMASWAMY and T. SMITH

This extremely practical book is written specifically for the busy practising GP. It sets out a strategy of contraception, in which advice is given on the selection of the best form of fertility control for an individual patient, on the problems that may be encountered with the various forms of contraception, and on related conditions such as the menopause, psychosexual disorders and sexually transmitted diseases. Dr Ramaswamy is at the Medical Research Council, and Dr Smith is Assistant Editor of the British Medical Journal and Editor, the Family Planning Association Medical Newsletter.

Protection of bronchitic and elderly patients

Happily there is still no sign of the possible spread of the new A/New Jersey (A/Swine) influenza virus which was treated so sensationally by the lay press in the spring. On the other hand, news from Australasia and other parts of the Southern Hemisphere – the traditional source of influenza outbreaks here – shows a big increase in epidemics of the A/Victoria strain, the one which has already contributed to an excess mortality of 25,000 in Britain this year.

The protection of bronchitic, elderly, and other special-risk patients is therefore still vitally important. Admune, made in Britain to comply fully with current WHO specifications, affords protection against A/Vic, the still active B/HK, and the new A/NJ (A/Swine) strains. Vaccination should be carried out as soon as possible.
