Editorials

559 Situations vacant: doctors required to provide care for people with learning disability  Gwyn Howells

60 Complementary medicine — doing more good than harm?  E Ernst

Original papers

63 Investigations of whether on-site general practice counsellors have an impact on psychotropic drug prescribing rates and costs  Bonnie Sibbald, Julia Addington-Hall, Douglas Brenneman and Paul Freeling

69 What do general practitioners and community mental health teams talk about? Descriptive analysis of liaison meetings in general practice  Stephen Midgley, Tom Burns and Carol Garland

73 One-year prospective study of cases of suspected acute myocardial infarction managed by urban and rural general practitioners  Andrew W Murphy, D McCafferty, J Dowling and Gerard Bury

77 Prevalence, aetiology and management of heart failure in general practice  Frances S Mair, Terence S Crowley and Peter E Bundred

81 Human resource management in general practice: survey of current practice  John Newton, Jo Hunt and John Stirling

87 Anti-smoking advice in general practice consultations: general practitioners’ attitudes, reported practice and perceived problems  Tim Coleman and Andrew Wilson

92 Attitudes of general practitioners to caring for people with learning disability  M Kerr, F Dunstan and A Thapar

95 Changes in general practice organization: survey of general practitioners’ views on the 1990 contract and fundholding  Brenda Leese and Nick Bosanquet

101 Views of pregnant women on the involvement of general practitioners in maternity care  Lindsay F P Smith

105 The biopsychosocial model of general practice: rhetoric or reality?  Christopher Dowrick, Carl May, Michael Richardson and Peter Bundred

109 Chronic disease or physical disability? The role of the general practitioner  David Memel

115 The science of perpetual change  Andrew Haines

Discussion paper

James Mackenzie lecture 1995

Letters

126 Book and video review

127 Classified advertisements

RCGP Connection pull-out magazine included for members

ISSN 0960-1643