Research papers this month

Editorials

Is there sufficient evidence for us to encourage the widespread use of hormone replacement therapy to prevent disease? Philip C Hannaford

Medicine and the arts: let’s not forget the medicine Jane MacNaughton

Original papers

Hormone replacement therapy: assessment of present use, costs, and trends Joy Townsend

Towards a better diagnosis of throat infections (with group A beta-haemolytic streptococcus) in general practice C F Dagnelie, M L Bartelink, Y van der Graaf, W Goessens and R A de Melker

Preconception care: who needs it, who wants it, and how should it be provided? Mark Wallace and Brian Hurwitz

Intensive cardiovascular risk factor intervention in a rural practice: a glimmer of hope? Adrian Roberts and Paula Roberts

Comparison of video-recorded consultations with those in which patients’ consent is withheld Tim Coleman and Terjinder Manku-Scott

General practitioners and women with urinary incontinence Majella Grealish and T C O’Dowd

A survey of audit activity in general practice Hilary Hearnshaw, Richard Baker and Alison Cooper

Brief reports

General practitioner perceptions of treatment benefits and costs in patients with hyperlipidaemia F D Richard Hobbs, Jeremy Holmes and Klaus Pugner

Teenagers and risk-taking: pregnancy and smoking Clare J Seamark and Denis J Pereira Gray

How accurately do parents collect urine samples from their children? A pilot study in general practice Jo Giddens and Geoff Robinson

Streptococcal infection observed in the Autumn of 1995 Stuart Sanders

Review article

Implementing guidelines and innovations in general practice: which interventions are effective? Michel Wensing, Trudy van der Weijden and Richard Grol

James Mackenzie Lecture 1997

The place of the humanities in the education of a doctor Brendan Sweeney

Letters

Classified advertisements

The Back Pages

Disabled doctors, parachutes and Mexico

Guidelines

Socialized medicine

Kilgore Trout

Gallstone Grove

Digest and Diary

ISSN 0960-1643