

The British Journal of General Practice

Editorials

266 Flourishing or floundering in the 1990s G N Marsh

267 Interface between primary care and specialist mental health care
David Goldberg and Gayle Jackson

Original papers

271 Provision of, and patient satisfaction with, primary care services in a relatively affluent area and a relatively deprived area of Glasgow
Sally Wyke, Gerrie Campbell and Sheila MacIver

276 Changes resulting from increasing appointment length: practical and theoretical issues
J L Campbell and J G R Howie

279 General practice based diabetes surveillance: the views of patients
Elizabeth Murphy, Ann-Louise Kinmonth and Theresa Marteau

284 How many people think they have hay fever, and what they do about it
Sonya Richards, David Thornhill, Heather Roberts and Ursula Harries

287 Prevalence of heart failure in three general practices in north west London
J Parameshwar, M M Shackell, A Richardson, P A Poole-Wilson and G C Sutton

290 General practitioners' attendance at courses accredited for the postgraduate education allowance
F Difford and R C W Hughes

Discussion paper

294 New strategies for higher professional education
Roger Pietroni

Personal view

297 Forty years on — and back Stuart Carne

300 Letters

305 Book and video review

306 Classified advertisements

RCGP Connection pull-out magazine included for members

