THE NORMAL CHILD

Some problems of the early years and their treatment

RONALD S. ILLINGWORTH

1972 Fifth Edition 416 pages 52 illustrations £3.00

The author deals with problems, other than disease, which occur in young children. A chapter on the whole child brings into focus the various special skills in modern paediatrics.

'This is one of the musts for general practitioners'-Practitioner

THE EYE IN GENERAL PRACTICE

C. R. S. JACKSON

1972 Sixth Edition 188 pages 48 illustrations £2.00

'Mr Jackson's excellent book will go a long way towards helping general practitioners in the diagnosis and treatment of ophthalmic cases, in deciding which cases can be referred to hospital and in understanding the specialist's reports which they may receive about patients who may have been thus referred.'—

British Journal of Clinical Practice

'This book has established itself firmly as a sound synopsis of the practical essentials of ophthalmology. It continues to fill a gap in the needs of the busy general practitioner.'—British Medical Journal

PHYSIOLOGY FOR PRACTITIONERS

Edited by IAN C. RODDIE

1971 208 pages £1.50

'One could hardly expect the physiology of every clinical trick to be explained, but the field covered is very wide. A few of the topics included, mentioned to whet one's appetite, are the renin-angiotensin theory, the capacity function (as distinct from the transport function) of the venous system, synaptic transmission, brown fat, posture control, energy balance failure, how skeletal muscles are organised and why arterioles offer more resistance than capillaries. Endocrinology and the regulation of reproduction receive full consideration also.'

In major and minor psychoses, drug with-drawal, senile dementia, control of terminal pain, and nausea and vomiting, the name to write is 'Largactil'. The established one. And the versatile one—because of its wide variety of presentations 'Largactil' allows treatment to be tailored to the individual needs of each patient at a very reasonable cost.

Flying. As well as being responsible for the medical care of aircrew, RAF doctors are encouraged to fly and thereby gain first-hand knowledge of the operational environments. Their responsibilities can also include aero-medical evacution, by the RAF's remarkable long-range airborne ambulance service, using Britannias and VC10s of Air Support Command. In 1970 approximately 2000 patients vere flown back to the United Kingdom. Equipment on the aircraft is most elaborate, and can include Radcliffe ventilators, dialysis machines, air-conditioned oxygen cots and a number of items specially designed by RAF consultants. A doctor—say a physician, a surgeon or an anaesthetist—may often be needed as part of the team to 'special' a patient.

Are you in yourPre-Registration Year -or recently fully registered?

Before you commit yourself to your permanent pattern of life. consider what the Royal Air Force has to offer.

The chance to practise total medical care, as a GP

Your first job would probably be a Junior Medical Officer on a large RAF Station. There would be at least one other doctor. Between you, you would have a 'list' of 2000 to 3000 people—servicemen and their families. You would meet all the usual clinical problems of a GP-and get plenty of experience in pediatrics. As well as this, you would be actively involved in the practice of aviation medicine and gain experience in the preventive, occupational and social fields.

Conditions of work are extremely good. You would have a consulting room in a specially built Medical Centre-like a small hospital with its own treatment room, theatre and resuscitation room, and wards for a dozen or so short-stay patients. There is a full secretarial and nursing staff. Your clinical freedom would be absolute.

The chance to specialise, too
Because General Practice is so highly developed in the RAF, this does not mean you have no chance to specialise. The contrary is true. 47% of all RAF doctors are now working in specialist departments. On a 'full career' contract you have every opportunity to reach consultant status in your late or middle thirties—perhaps earlier.

The chance to study for higher qualifications

Any RAF doctor, whether specialist or GP (as long as he is not on the very shortest of contracts) can apply for six months study leave on full salary. On a permanent commission, he may have up to two years' external study leave.

The chance to travel

The RAF operates in many different conditions and climates. Abroad, the RAF doctor looks after RAF personnel and their families and, very often, the local population as well. Your gain in clinical experience would be marked.

The chance of a good social and family life

The RAF is a young community, with a full and active social life. There are facilities for almost every kind of sport and, which is most important, the time to enjoy your family while you are still a young man. Living conditions are excellent. If you are single you live in the Officers' Mess, which has all the amenities of a good hotel. If you are married, you will nearly always have a furnished house that goes with the job; rent for this is very modest; and it can save a large financial outlay at the beginning of your career.

A realistic pay scale

Pay is based on the average earnings of civilian GP. Immediately after full registration, the present basic salary is £3668; after 5 years it rises to £4424; after 13 years to £5453. There are various other allowances; for instance, with children at boarding school the figures are £330 (net) for one child, £723 (net) for two children, £1194 (net) for three children. There are tax-free gratuities of £1500 after 3 years, or £3000 after 5 years. After service of 16 years or more there is a pension, payable for life, and a generous terminal grant.

For full information please write, giving your age, nationality, and date of full registration, to Group Captain J. G. Donald, OBE, MB, ChB, MRCGP, DTM&H, RAF, Ministry of Defence, 1-6 Tavistock Square (724KB4), London, WC1H 9NL. Or visit your nearest RAF Careers Infor-
