

The Journal of The Royal College of General Practitioners

Volume 34

Number 258

January 1984

Editorials

Some longterm sequelae of Cocksackie B virus infection
Prescribing—a suitable case for treatment

History of medicine

General practice and the Edinburgh Medical School: 200 years of teaching, care and research

Original papers

Cocksackie B infection in a Scottish general practice
Primary dermatological care in general practice Anticonvulsant therapy in a general practice population in Northern Ireland
Visual problems in children: detection and referral
Mortality among inmates of a common lodging house
A new look at learning needs in general practice
Consumer interest in a higher degree in general practice
A follow-up of some North-East London trainees

Published by Update Publications Ltd

ISSN 0035-8797