

BJGP Editorial Staff Competing Interests

Euan Lawson: I am the Editor of BJGP, and my competing interests can be found here.

Andrew Papanikitas: I am the Deputy Editor BJGP, and I also chair the Committee on Medical Ethics at the Royal College of General Practitioners. Outside of the Royal College of General Practitioners, I am employed by Hull York Medical School as a fellow on the CATALYST program for recently qualified and returning GPs. I am also the president of the Faculty of History and Philosophy of the Worshipful Society of Apothecaries of London and co-director for the Apothecaries' course and examination in the philosophy of medicine. I am a recent past president of the general practice and primary health care section of the Royal Society of Medicine. I am employed on an occasional basis to teach a variety of subjects at the University of Oxford, and in Oxford Medical School. I am locum GP in central Oxford and have previously been a BMA Regional Junior Doctors Committees chair for Oxford.

Nada Khan: I am an NIHR Academic Clinical Fellow in General Practice. My main employer as a GP registrar is the Royal Devon University Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust, and I hold an honorary contract with the University of Exeter for my academic work. I regularly collaborate with researchers from various universities and hospital trusts within the UK. I also work with the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) and the Clinical Practice Research Datalink (CPRD) for contracted work relating to their quality improvement reports. I am an Associate Editor of BJGP and all research papers that I may submit to BJGP or BJGP Open will undergo external peer review and I am not involved in the processing or editorial decision of these papers.

Samuel Merriel: I am employed by the University of Manchester as an NIHR Academic Clinical Lecturer and Westway Medical Centre in Maghull as a salaried GP. I hold an honorary associate post with the University of Exeter. I am a senior editorial board member of BMC Cancer. I regularly collaborate with researchers from various institutions both within the UK and internationally. I hold multiple NIHR research grants as a principal investigator, and additional grants as a co-investigator. I give ad hoc educational presentations on behalf of Prostate Cancer UK but receive no remuneration or incentive for doing so. I am an Associate Editor of BJGP and all research papers that I submit to BJGP or BJGP Open undergo external peer review and I am not involved in the processing or editorial decision of these papers.

Thomas Round: I am an academic GP at King's College London (KCL). I work in the School of Life Course & Population Health Sciences and the Cancer Prevention Trials Unit (CPTU). I have been funded by NIHR and Royal Marsden Partners (RMP) Fellowships and Cancer Research UK (CRUK) grants and I'm currently working on the NHS Galleri Trial with KCL CPTU. I am also e-learning lead for the Royal College of General Practitioners Essential Knowledge Updates programme, developing evidence-based content for busy GPs and trainees. I am an Associate Editor of BJGP and all research papers that I submit to BJGP or BJGP Open undergo external peer review and I am not involved in the processing or editorial decision of these papers.

Alex Burrell: I am an NIHR Academic Clinical Fellow in General Practice. My main employer as a GP trainee in the Severn Deanery is Gloucestershire Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust, and I hold an honorary contract with the University of Bristol for my academic work. I am an Editorial Fellow of BJGP and BJGP Open and all research papers that I submit to BJGP or BJGP Open undergo external peer review and I am not involved in the processing or editorial decision of these papers.
